LOCATE SUBMARINE — FIRST CLUE WAS WRONG

Honolulu, March 29.—A small fleet of naval tugs, wrecking vessels, of private salvage companies, and barges left here early today to raise sunken submarine F-4. All hope of saving lives of 21 men aboard has been abandoned.

Certainty that submarine has been located, just outside harbor, more than 300 feet below the surface, after almost three days had been spent on a false clue, spurred the rescue corps to renewed effort. What was believed to be submarine Saturday was an abandoned anchor.

"The 'West Ellum st. shootin' gallery hereafter will keep open past 7 p. m. This is all that wuz needed to pervide Beeleysport with a night life."

MADE ENEMIES

"You see, the magnet picks up the tacks and I've cleared the road of them."

"You've made yourself very popular, I bet."

"On the contrary, the repair men nearly mobbed me."

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair Monday and probably Tuesday; slightly warmer Tuesday, moderate northwest winds, becoming variable.
